tives of the universities and colleges of the state the question of college baseball was discussed at length. Nothing definite was done and the matter was left unsettled. After the meeting the representatives of several of the schools tried to make some definite arrangements for the formation of a state league, but this meeting adjourned also before anything of a definite nature was done. Undaunted by these two failures the Undaunted by these two failures the baseball fans of the schools have decided to call another meeting of representatives of the various schools for the express purpose of settling the college baseball question.

Captain Smith in Line.

Captain Lysle Smith of the university beseball team has ordered all candidates for positions on the team to report for practice, next Monday afternoon. The football field of the school is being rapidly turned into a baseball diamond and idly turned into a baseball diamond and all in all the prospects for college base-ball are materializing and it is hoped that before the season closes that the new disputed fact that college baseball is an impossibility will be disproved. That there is sufficient material at the school is not denied by even the staunchest opposers of the introduction of the national game as one of the regular school activi-ties the same as it is in all the large ties the same as it is in all the large reastern colleges.

The only argument that can and is being advanced by the opposition is that het present the school is supporting all the activities that it can. In taking this istand Utah differs from all the western colleges of note. Every school in Colorado has its baseball team and a series of reames is played between the several colrado has its baseball team and a series of games is played between the several colleges for the state championship. This series of contests is of as much public interest as is the football series in the fall. The question of finance takes care of itself as all the games are well attended. That Utah's success would be less than that of the Colorado schools reamont be figured out. cannot be figured out.

The men at the university who will probably make places on the teams are: George Brown, Eddie Perce, "Tom" Billings, J. R. Smith, Daniel Alexander and Captain Lysle Smith. Brown is an exceptionally strong man in the box, having strong man in the box, having ceptionally strong man in the dox, having held down that position in amateur leagues for several years. Pierce and Billings are of the old High school team. They are both good infielders, while Billings is a good man behind the bat. Captain Smith, however, will most likely be found in this latter position.

Maddock Publishes a Book.

Coach Joseph Maddock has been busily engaged the last two weeks in the preparation of a small book for distribution among the high schools of the state in which is set forth all the essential facts necessary, for the putting of a track and field team into shape. The book is being published by the athletic council of the university and comes as an answer to the great number of questions that are being received every day from the various high schools of the state which expect to enter a team in the state High school meet. Coach Joseph Maddock has been busily school meet.

The book will contain about twenty pages and will be divided into departments. Each department will contain an article written by the man now at the university who holds the records in the events about which he writes. Captain 'f'uzzy' Moore will tell bow he run the 100 and 220-yard dashes. Dale H. Parke will set forth in detail the essential points relative to hurdle racing as well as the way in which to lay off the hurdle course and to construct the hurdles. Melvin Swapp and John Hume will tell how to win the jumps and long distances respectively. Fred Bennion will give the details necessary to the throwing of the hammer and the putting of the shot. The pictures of the above men in action will be a part of the book, thus showing the form as described in the articles.

FOOD FOR THE FANS.

Blessed are they who swat over .300, for they shall inherit the earth.

Honor thy mogul and thy magnate, that thy days may be long in the job which the national commission giveth thee.

Beware the scribe who urgeth thee to ginger up and to play "scrappy" ball. He will straightway call thee "rowdy."

Call not thy brother fool, lest some day he be thy manager and curb thee with a strong curb, and not to be broken.

Blessed are the peace-makers. Their fines shall be light

Thou shalt steal. For he that sneaketh not to second, the same shall be condemned.

He that taketh a chance and gainsthe.

He that taketh a chance and gaineth a base is greater than he that taketh a city. The fool saith in his heart, "I will sass the umpire," but the wise man holdeth his peace.

Whether there be magnates they shall perish; whether there be star players, they shall fall; whether there be winter dope, it shall vanish away, for there is

He that hath eyes to see and hitteth not, the same shall be cast out.

I could almost have sworn it was the same man that umpired the famous all game between the Ringtall Roarers and the Lightfoot Lilies in the spring of "It happened this way: Just as the contest was about to start old Doc Quackenbush, who umpired all the big games in Jones county, had an anti-race and the Lightfoot Lilies, and Capt. Cy Priest of the Roarers were trying to agree on some one to take his place, a tall, thin man, holding a vicious looking bloodhound in leash, waked out upon the field. He had a deep set, penetrating eye, and an aquiline nose that looked as though it could scent crime through the worst cold in the head that ever foiled a sleuth. "Both of them were all to the good as outfielders, but while Right Foote was a holy terror at the bat Left Foote couldn't have hit a bunch of toy balloons if you'd held them right in front of him.

"For that reason Captain Slugger Burrows always put their names pretty far apart on the batting list, so that neither of them ever came to the bat while the other was on base. In this way it was possible to have Right Foote bat for both of them and on account of the brother's extraordinary resemblance the opposing team could never spot the change.

"Therefore, in the inith inning, although it was Left Foote's turn at bat, a good many of us had sneaking impressions that it was Right Foote who really toed the plate.

"Before either Cy or the Slugger could say anything further the self-appointed umpire had flipped a coin.

"Heads or talls?' he asked of Cy.
"Talls it is.'
"Thalls ties.'
"That was Right Foote who really took the plate.

as umpire. The mysed a fine of $50. This was more than Mr. Edwards expected, and he consulted with Attorney S. A. King and decided to take an appeal. Edwards claims to be an employe of the Bell company in Salt Lake and not of the Independent, as reported last night. Today all the non-union men who took the places of the union men have quit, having been persuaded by the union men so to do. No further violence has been used.

An interesting concert was given by the Parker school pupils this week under the direction of Principal Eggertsen. The concert was for the benefit of the free public library and was in every way a success.

Dr. George H. Brimhall, Professor J. C. Swenson, Mrs. Byron W. King and the B. Y. U. concert company went to Nephit today to take part in the entertainment of the teachers and farmers institute.
